RE: Letter of Recommendation

Dear Mr. Williams:

It has been a pleasure to do business with A. D. Stowe for the past 20 years. We have found the company to be responsive to our needs, providing quality work on a timely basis. Your pricing has always been competitive and well thought out with few change orders. Whether the job is large or small your attention to detail and responsiveness have been extremely helpful in making our responsibilities as a design-build general contractor easier to accomplish.

Adaptable and innovative A. D. Stowe came up with a new approach to provide a curved, precision surface for the projection of real time images using multiple projection devices for a ship board training simulator. Thus, saving the customer a great deal of time and money in the construction of a simulator building for use by the U. S. Navy and civilians to train in ship board handling techniques. This method of using conventional studs and drywall was a first in this application.

It is our desire that we continue to work with you and your company for many years to come and build on what has been a particularly enjoyable and rewarding experience.

Sincerely,
